1. Near the centre of your paper, draw an upside down rain drop.

2. Draw two slightly curved lines from the head down to the bottom of your paper.

3. On each side of the body, make cloud like humps from the head down to the bottom of your page.

4. The centre of the peacock's feathers are heart shapes. You want to draw hearts whereever you want feathers. Make sure the pointy part (at the bottom of your heart) point towards your peacock.
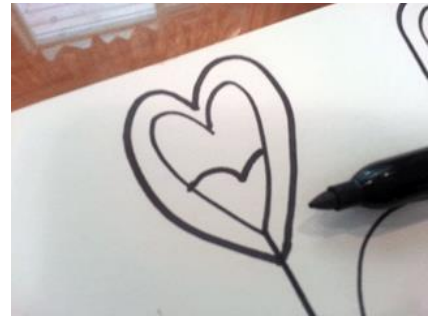

5. Here is a shot so you can see the hearts all pointing to the peacock. Some of the hearts are sideways, it helps to turn your paper as needed.

6. Draw lines from the pointy end of the heart to the body of the peacock.

STEP 7

Go back to your hearts and add another heart around each one.

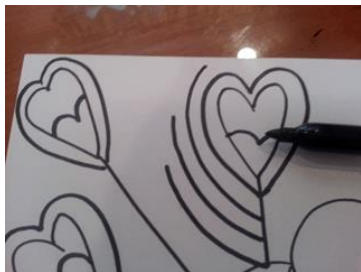

STEP 8

8. Here is a shot of how your drawing should look now.

STEP 9

9. Now go back through all your hearts and make a lopsided heart inside each of them.

STEP 10

10. Starting near the top of the heart, draw a curving line down to the shaft of the feather. Draw more lines always starting just a bit lower than the previous line.
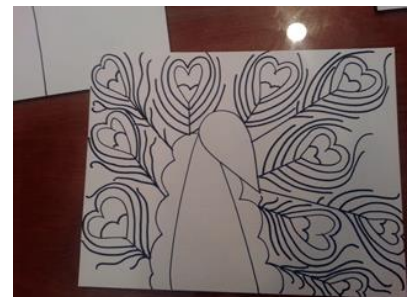

STEP 11

11. Repeat these curved lines for the other side of the feather.

STEP 12

STEP 13

12 Go back to the "clouds" that you drew alongside the peacock's body and add small, rounded diamonds along the sides.

13 Here is a photo of all the feathers when they are finished. As you get better at drawing the curved lines you can add little waves at the top just like peacock feather.

STEP 14

14   At the bottom of your peacock body draw cloud humps all the way across.

STEP 15

15 Draw your second layer of cloud humps. NOTE: You want your humps to land on the peak of the previous rows humps. Look at the photo to see where to land.

STEP 16

16. Continue adding layers up your peacock body. Once you get the hang of it, start to make them smaller as you go. See how the humps at the top are much smaller. Leave a space before you reach the peacock's head.

STEP 17

17. Draw four lines and four circles on top of the peacock's head. Then draw a circle eye, with a lopsided heart in the centre

STEP 18

Use curved lines to make the markings on your peacock's face. When complete, you can use a black marker to trace over your pencil.
