

Homophones and Near Homophones

This week, we going to look at some more tricky homophones and near homophones.

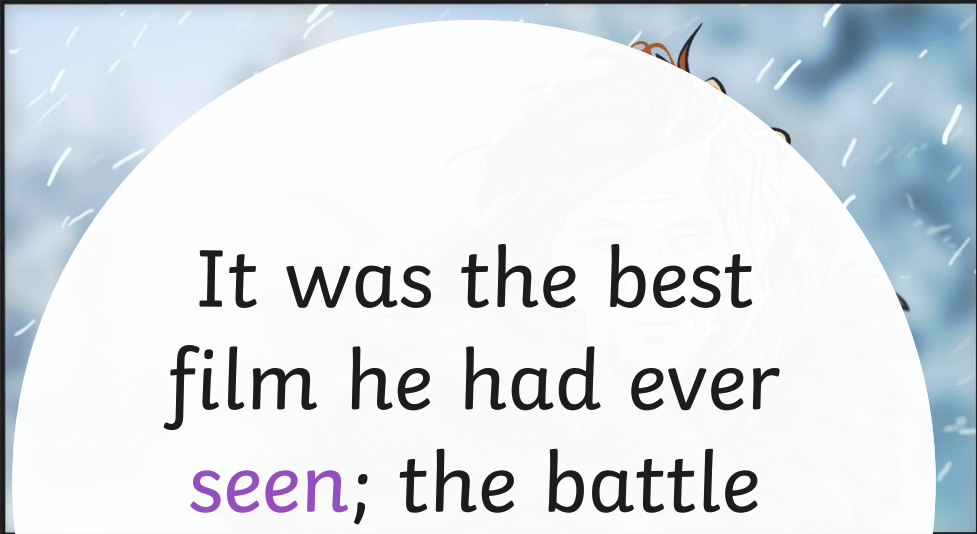

Can you remember what homophones are?

Homophones (or near homophones) are words that sound the same but have different spellings and meanings.

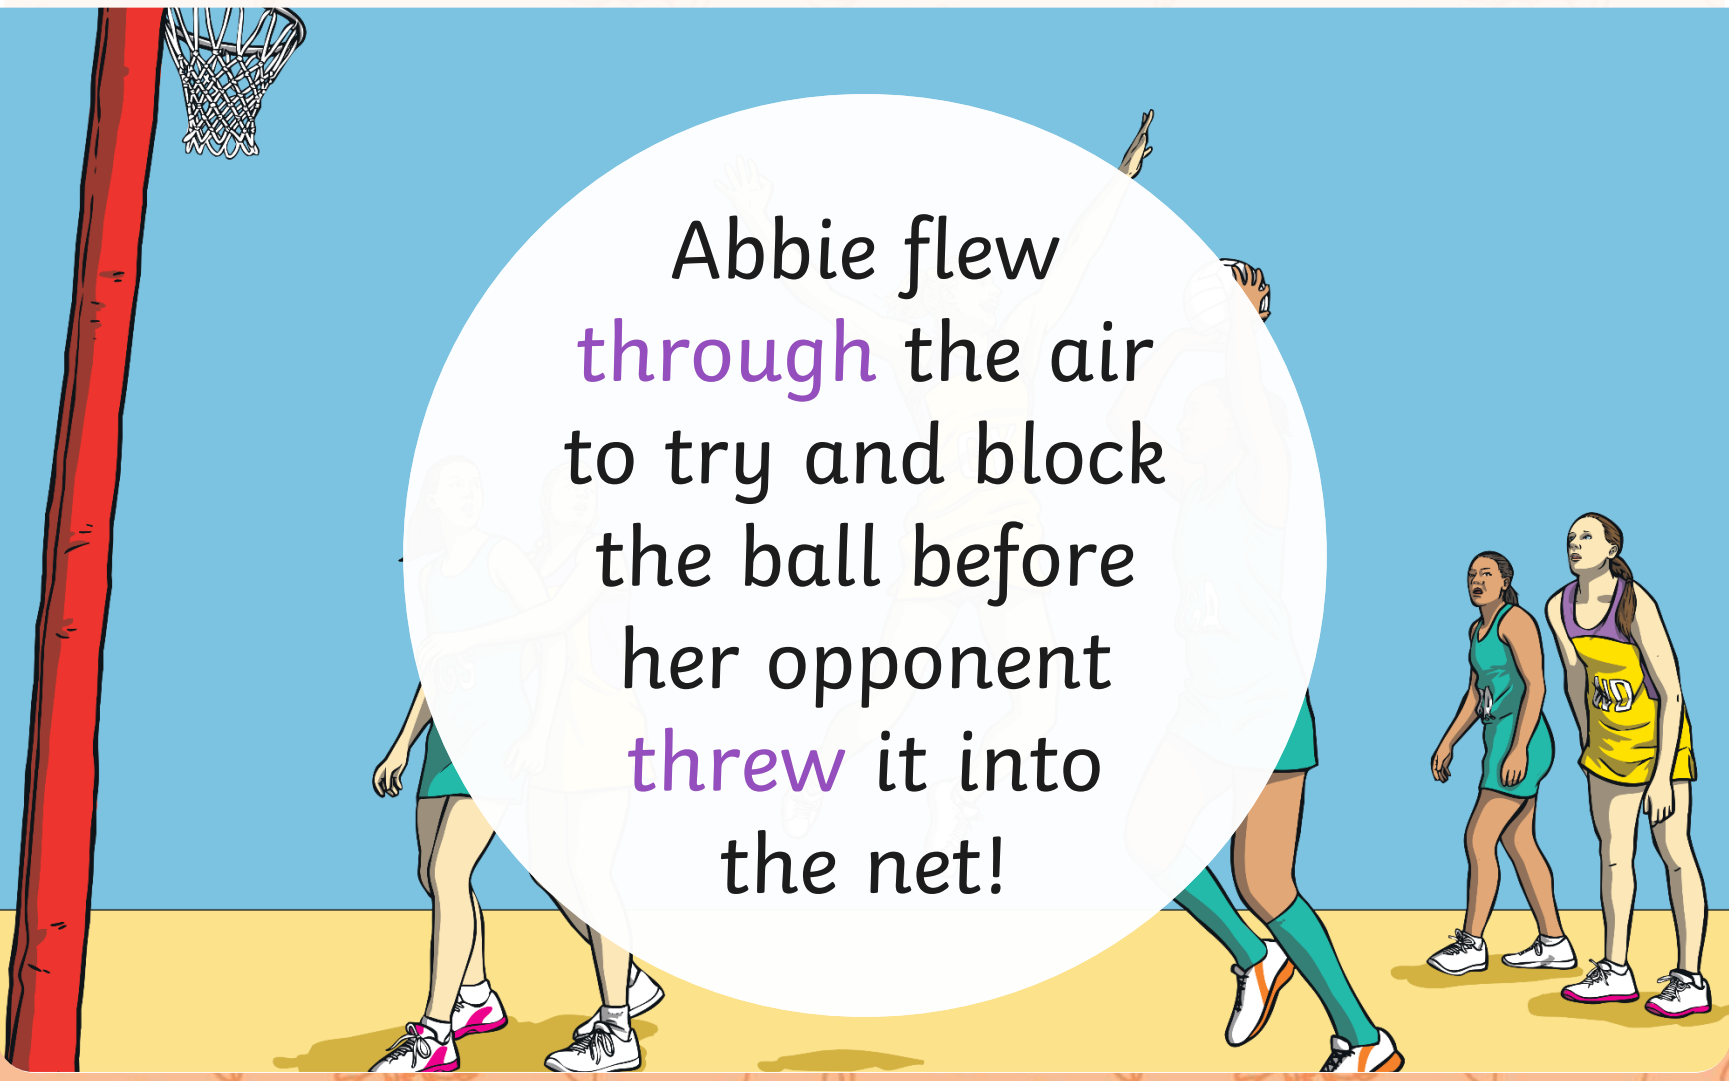

Can you spot the pair of homophones in this sentence?

It was the best
film he had ever

scene was phenomenal!

The image shows a movie theater with red seats and a large screen. A large white circle is overlaid on the screen, containing the text. The background of the slide is orange with a pattern of small, stylized leaves or flowers.

Can you spot the pair of homophones in this sentence?

An illustration of a basketball game. In the background, a basketball hoop is visible on the left. Several players are shown: one player in a green jersey is jumping towards the basket, another player in a yellow jersey is also jumping, and two other players are on the right. A large white circle is overlaid in the center, containing the text. The words 'through' and 'threw' are highlighted in purple.

Abbie flew
through the air
to try and block
the ball before
her opponent
threw it into
the net!

To work out your new spelling words, which are all pairs of homophones or near homophones, I am going to give you pairs of definitions.
